

RED-HAired WOMEN TO RECEIVE HONORS

Titian-Tressed Femininity To Be Admitted Free to Pure Food Show.

Red-headed women of Washington will "come into their own" Thursday night. They will be admitted free to the national pure food show, given by the Grocers' Protective Association, at Convention Hall this week and next.

show are greatly pleased with the interest shown by Washingtonians, the hall being crowded to its capacity again Tuesday night.

The distribution of free samples continues to be a great drawing card. A full-sized package of Jello was given to each of the first 500 women who bought admission tickets.

More of the dessert will be given out tonight, and this afternoon Habbitt's Cleaners will be dispensed free. Bags of Franklin sugar are also on the "free list." They will be given out by means of a drawing.

Special features will be given each day. Perry F. Patrick, manager of the show, hints at a wedding as one of the surprises in store for food show visitors, but declares details are not ready to be made public.

Gifts For Women.

Five hundred full-sized packages of Jello were given out to the first 500 women who bought tickets to the National Food Show at Convention hall last night.

All the booths are now complete, and some of the samples which had been delayed in transportation are now ready for distribution.

Every booth has its souvenirs, and one has to be particularly agile to get past a fair demonstrator without at least a promise to buy some of her wares at the first opportunity.

The best output of the advertising writer is yours, even without the asking. You get nice red and yellow and green literature, containing noble sentiments about doughnut dough, junket, grape juice, pickles, mustard, ice cream, sink cleaners, fireless cookers, automobiles, hams, buckwheat cakes, soap, and other handy household hints.

A feature of last night's entertainment, aside from the selections by Pictorial's Orchestra was a saxophone solo, "Mother Machree," by Steven Donovan. There will be special music every evening.

To Meet Loyola Debaters.

Gaston Debating Society of Georgetown University will debate against the Loyola College Literary Society of Baltimore on Wednesday, December 13, at Loyola Hall in Baltimore. The contest will be the first intercollegiate debate for Georgetown University this year. Three men will make up each team.

Army and Navy Union To Receive Officers

Elaborate preparations have been made for the reception of two national officers of the Army and Navy Union, who will make an official visit to Admiral David D. Porter Garrison No. 6, within the next two weeks. Discussion of the proposed visit of National Commander H. Oden Lake and Inspector General Albert G. Binder, of Philadelphia, was one of the actions of the meeting of the garrison held last night in the hall on Capitol Hill, Third and E streets northeast.

Arrangements have been completed to have Department Commander John C. Dally and Adjutant General Lemuel E. Fugitt, with the other officers of the garrison, receive the national officers at their hotel and with the garrison drum, life and bugle corps composed of twenty pieces, escort the distinguished visitors to the hall, where a fitting reception will be held. The Admiral David D. Porter Garrison Auxiliary will serve refreshments at the evening entertainment.

Guild Is Preparing to Distribute Garments

Rooms of the District of Columbia branch of the Needlework Guild of America, in the Chamber of Commerce building, are being visited by prominent Washington women who are preparing for the annual distribution of garments to hospitals. Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, honorary president, is interested, but will be unable to take part in the distribution, because it comes the day of the White House wedding.

The aim of the organization is to supply garments that will be especially useful to mothers and little children leaving the hospitals.

Contributions of garments and money may be sent to the Chamber of Commerce before November 25, or to any of the officers of the branch: Honorary president, Mrs. Woodrow Wilson; president, Mrs. Henry Arnold Peckham; vice presidents, Mrs. Oscar W. Underwood, Miss Anna B. Abbott, Miss Mabel T. Boardman, Mrs. A. F. Hassas; treasurer, Mrs. George Thomas; secretary, Mrs. Richard B. Watrous.

Will Give Lecture Before Brotherhood

"An Anglo-American Abroad," will be the subject of a lecture by H. W. O. Millington before the Brookland Brotherhood at the meeting next Tuesday night.

J. M. Long is now president of the brotherhood, having been elected at an executive board meeting in Memorial Hall, Brookland, last night. At the suggestion of Louis Melius it was decided that a new committee on ways and means consisting of five members be appointed by the president.

Commerce Department Changes of Personnel

Raymond M. J. Neu, clerk in the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Department of Commerce, has been promoted to $1,000, the temporary appointment of Miss Anna M. McCarthy as clerk at $900 has been extended. Miss Grace N. Kingston has been temporarily appointed as clerk at $900, and C. W. A. Vellie has been appointed commercial agent.

University Students Come From Abroad

That George Washington University is purely, or even in the main, an institution of local young men is proven untrue by Dean Barden's report on the Department of Medicine, where the students come from all sections of this country and of the world. Of the 125 students in this department, 15 are non-residents of the District.

Australia, Cuba, China, France, Canada, Finland, Russia, Sweden, and Porto Rico are represented, and twenty-six States in the Union. New York leads, with twenty-nine students; Virginia is second, with fourteen; and Pennsylvania third, with eleven.

Forced to Walk; Sues Company For $10,000

Because she was forced to walk from Ninth and G streets northwest to First and E streets northeast, after a conductor had refused to give her a transfer, and as a result caught a severe cold, she alleges, Emma Joy asks for $10,000 in a suit filed in the District Supreme Court against the Washington Railway and Electric Company. The incident occurred December 3, last, according to the petition.

Voted Against Rabbits.

CK, Tex., Nov. 5.—The Jack-rabbit set go. Lubbock county has an election to decide whether to terminate all the rabbits in this county. Not having the right to vote, the rabbits lost by a large majority, the election resulting against them by a 6-1 landslide, so they must either remove to other counties or submit to extermination. The county commissioners are preparing for the biggest rabbit drive ever held in the West.

DANIEL WILLARD,
President of the Baltimore and Ohio R.R. says he knows several successful Railroad Presidents who started as stenographers.

Strayer's Business College is the ideal place to train for stenography.

Good stenographers are in demand everywhere. There is always a demand for STRAYER'S-TRAINED STENOGRAPHERS that exceeds the supply. Each year Strayer's places many students in excellent and well-paying positions.

Efficient instruction does it. We have the proofs.

SHORTHAND A BIG ASSET

Daniel Willard Says It Helped Men to Railroad Presidencies.

HIS SON IS TAKING COURSE

Head of the Great B. and O. System Advises Young Men and Women to Take Up Study

President Daniel Willard, of the Baltimore and Ohio, is a firm believer in the value of the knowledge of stenography as a business asset. He frankly says every young man should seek to become proficient in this branch of business training whether he intends to take it up for a livelihood or not or whether or not he will ever be required to fall back on it for a living.

"So convinced am I of its value," said President Willard yesterday, "that I am having my boy taught it, and by the best teachers he can get. Although this lad is a sophomore at Yale, and perhaps above the age at which the study of stenography is usually begun, I am anxious that he shall become proficient in this work, and am giving him every encouragement to keep at the study until he has mastered it. It pleases me to say that the lad has entered into its study with as much earnestness as I can wish and is keeping up its practice in connection with his other studies at Yale."

"I had him started on it during the past summer vacation and he devoted all his spare time to the subject. I got a letter from him only today in which he speaks of the progress he is making and of his continued interest in the study. This ought to be ample proof of how I value a knowledge of stenography."

"But why shouldn't I take this view? I can name several successful railroad presidents who started as stenographers and who have risen through it to these responsible places. At the moment I recall Darius Miller, president of the Burlington system, and W. G. Hayes, president of the Grand Trunk. There are many others that I cannot recall off-hand."

"The example of these men ought to be an incentive to all ambitious young men and impressive of the value of proficiency in everything they undertake. All may not become railroad presidents, but a proficiency in stenography will certainly help them along to success in other fields."

President Willard thinks the first question asked an applicant for a position, after his honesty has been ascertained, is whether or not he is proficient in stenography and typewriting. He says it is soon acquired with proper application and he recommends it to all young men and women.

A demonstration at the show will convince you that "Pride" Oleomargarine is a pure, healthful, and satisfactory substitute for high priced butter.

Also remember that "Pride" Oleo is unexcelled, in fact we consider it superior to most Oleomargarine on the market.

Compare it carefully, test it any way you like, you cannot fail to note that it is exceptionally fine.

OUR BEST RECOMMENDATION OF QUALITY is the fact that our patrons who once use C. C. Pride cannot be induced to accept any other kind.
